Probe Chairman Wants Law To Regulate 'Five Percenters'

Storm Grows As It Sweeps Nearer Fla.

"Harry's Hurricane" 440 Miles From Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 22 (AP)—A small but growing hurricane with winds up to 100 miles per hour was within 440 miles of the Florida coast tonight.

The first tropical storm of the season—dubbed "Harry's Hurricane"—because it coincided with President Truman's visit to Miami—has caused an alert to be sounded for the Northeastern Bahama Islands.

Storm's Eye Probed

At 5 p.m. (EST) the storm was centered at latitude 26.2 north, longitude 73.3 west or about 440 miles east of Miami. It was traveling between 15 to 17 miles per hour on a west-northwest course.

Military planes riding in the center of the doughnut-shaped eye of the storm reported that violent rains and extreme turbulence was found on all sides, "indicating that the storm probably will continue to grow both in size and intensity."

The Weather Bureau cautioned residents in the Northeastern Bahamas—particularly in the Abaco group—for possible high seas and dangerous gales late tonight and Tuesday.

100 M. P. H. Winds

Winds of about 100 miles an hour whirled around the storm's center, with gales extending outward about 100 miles on the northern semicircle.

No storm alerts have been posted anywhere in Florida, and forecasters pointed out that every effort is made to give 24 hours warning to an area which might become threatened.

A straight-lined projection of the storm's path, pointed out in the direction of the northern half of the Florida peninsula, but Weather Bureau men emphasized that hurricanes practically never follow a straight line.

Murray-Lewis 'Race' Is Charged

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—Philip Murray was accused by a United States Steel Corporation spokesman today of straining to keep pace with the wage and pension gains of John L. Lewis' powerful United Mine Workers.

Enders M. Voorhees, finance chairman of the big steel firm, said his company is caught in the middle of a "bitter race for power of giant labor monopolies."

He added that the race by Murray's CIO United Steelworkers can cost 60,000 jobs in the scope of United States Steel's operations alone.

Voorhees made his charges as the industry wound up arguments before a presidential fact-finding board against a fourth-round wage, pension and insurance increase for the steelworkers.

The USW-CIO is demanding contract improvements which it says will cost 30 cents a man per hour. The steel industry figures the increases at from 40 to 73 cents an hour and says it cannot grant them in the face of declining operations.

French Forest Fires Checked; 79 Perish

BORDEAUX, France, Aug. 22 (AP)—Weary forest firefighters said tonight they have saved two villages from flames which have killed 79 persons and ravaged an estimated 271,000 acres in Southern France.

It was announced late tonight all fires in Gironde Department had been brought under control. Cool weather and the absence of wind aided the fire fighters.

About 200 houses were destroyed by the flames in the entire stricken area of Southwestern France.

Hoey Prepares Bill; Suspended General Will Testify Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Chairman Hoey (D-NC), of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee, said today he wants a law to regulate "five percenters."

Hoey made the announcement in Shelby, N. C., while his subcommittee set up this schedule of witnesses: Tomorrow—Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman, suspended quartermaster general who once had charge of buying food for all the armed services.

At the time of Feldman's suspension, Secretary of the Army Gray said that Feldman had "furnished to a contractor's representative information under circumstances which appear irregular."

Vaughan To Testify Later

The committee said it plans to read into the record a letter which Feldman reportedly wrote James V. Hunt, Washington management counselor, giving details on the Quartermaster Corps' buying plans.

Also up for consideration, the committee said, is a reported deal in which the Quartermaster Corps bought back a supply of DDT bombs that one of Hunt's clients didn't want.

Wednesday, or later—Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, President Truman's Army aide. Vaughan's name has popped up at every hearing.

Said Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of Vaughan: "He will be given every consideration, but will be asked an awful lot of questions."

One committee member said Vaughan would be on the stand Wednesday but later it was reported it might be Thursday or Friday before he would be called.

Details Of Hoey Plan

The committee was in recess today, but Hoey, during his Shelby visit, announced the details of a bill he plans to introduce as soon as the hearings are completed.

Here's Hoey's plan: "Five percenters"—men who try to land government contracts for businessmen in return for a fee—would be required to give public notice that they are paid by business clients.

Every company seeking a contract with the government would be required to register the names of persons it has hired to assist it, Hoey said. Furthermore, he said, any five percenter would have to register with the government department with which he wants to do business.

Hoey's idea: To bring the whole business out into the open.

Prize Gold Fish Collection Stolen

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP)—Dr. Daniel Miller, collector of prize gold fish, told police today someone had taken all but two of the 200 beauties in his pool.

He valued them at $2 apiece. "Probably fisherman," Dr. Miller said. "Bait is very high. Worms are a dollar a dozen, peckers are three for a dollar, shrimp is out of the question, and minnows you just can't get."

"Revolt Against Drink Spreading," WCTU Told

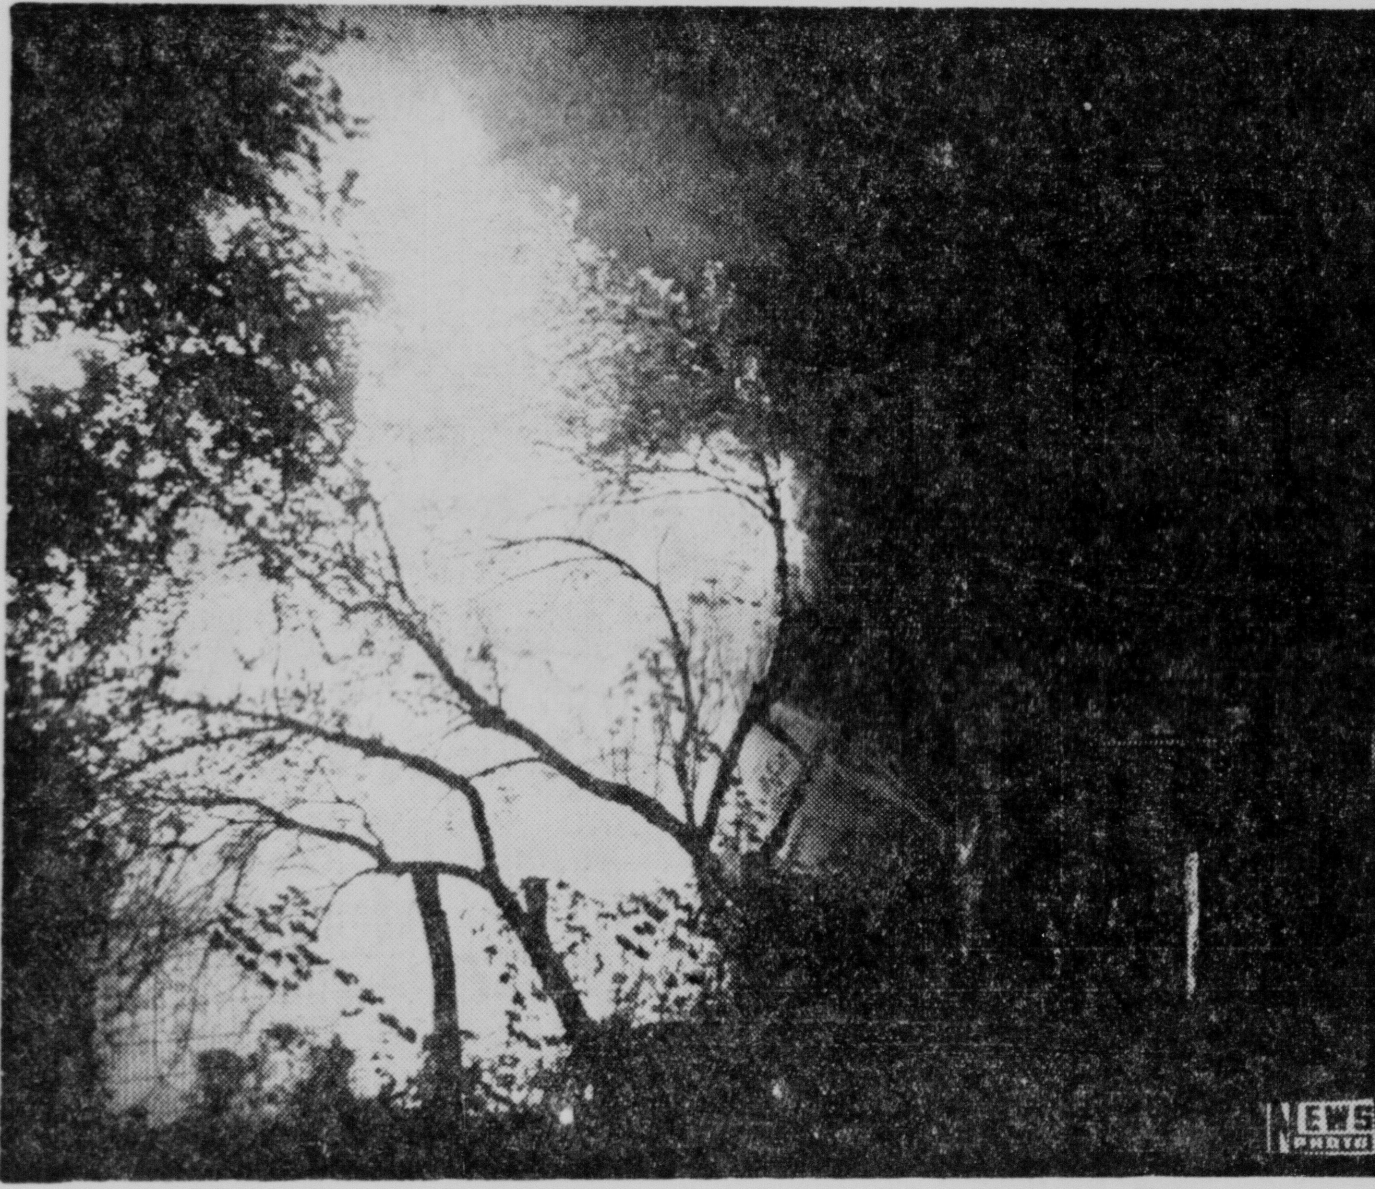

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22 (AP)—A Woman's Christian Temperance Union leader declared tonight that the WCTU is stronger now than ever before.

"The revolt against drink," said Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, Seattle, "is spreading over the world."

Mrs. Munns spoke at the temperance union's 75th national convention. She reported that 52 nations now have national organizations auxiliary to the world WCTU.

This represents a gain of two countries over last year, she said.

The organization reelected Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, Evanston, Ill., as its president. She has held that office since 1944.

Coal Operators, Union To Resume Meetings Today

No Accord Expected Until After Labor Day

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 22 (AP)—The United Mine Workers and coal operators square off again tomorrow for what likely will be another round of shadow boxing.

Scarcely anyone seems to think any agreement on a new bituminous working contract will be reached until well after Labor Day—if then. Northern and western operators are resuming their talks with the union here. Southern coal producers and the UMW are picking up again at Bluefield 90 miles away.

Both conferences recessed August 11. The general opinion seems to be there will be a couple of days discussion this week and then there will be another break until after Labor Day.

Miners On 3-Day Week

For the last six weeks coal miners have been working only on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. This upon order of UMW President John L. Lewis.

The operators have protested against the three-day week, describing it as both costly to them and illegal. But there is nothing to indicate there will be any change unless Lewis says so.

Although no contract agreement is expected this week, there are those who believe that groundwork may be laid for a showdown some time in September.

The thinking behind this is that cold weather is coming along, and the nation's coal stockpile has been dwindling. With the expected fall upsurge in business and our increased domestic demand the pile will dwindle some more.

Coal Stockpile Drops

Under the three-day week, production has averaged a little better than 7,000,000 tons a week, as compared with more than 12,000,000 tons normal output.

Back in May, the amount of coal above ground was figured at around 75,000,000 tons.

Since then, in addition to the shortened work week, there has been the annual miners' holiday and a week's "stabilization" layoff ordered by Lewis.

Various coal sources estimate the existing stockpile at between 40,000,000 and 45,000,000 tons.

Rent Control Funds Promised, If Needed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said today he has been assured that if more money is needed for rent control next year, Congress will vote it.

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods immediately said he was "grateful." Woods had said that the $17,500,000 voted his office for the next fiscal year wasn't enough. He said he would have to lift rent controls on one-third of the areas which still have them.

Douglas then proposed that the $17,500,000 figure be spent in nine months, instead of a year as the law now is.

But Douglas dropped the idea today, because, he said, he had been assured that if the Housing Expediter needs more funds in January, other senators will support him then.

Wishes Toy Gun Real As He Sees $15,360 Stolen

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 22 (AP)—A pair of thieves stole $15,360 from an armored truck while a nine-year old boy looked on, wishing his toy pistol were loaded.

The truck was stolen while its attendants were making collections.

A few minutes later, the thieves drove up in the truck to a "brownish" car where Billy Ludlow was standing.

His hand on his holstered pistol, Billy watched intently as the men unloaded 21 bags of money from the truck and placed it in the other car.

"Lonely Hearts" Slayers Doomed

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—Two convicted "lonely hearts" killers stood mute today as they were condemned to die in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair during the week beginning October 10.

Mrs. Martha Beck, 29, and Raymond Fernandez, 34, were calm as Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora read the sentence.

Mrs. Beck attempted a smile, but it developed into more of a sneer. Fernandez smiled to his 200-pound sweetheart as he walked away from the bench and said something which court attaches said was so low that even she did not hear.

Three killings were charged against the defendants, two in Michigan, where they were arrested, and one in Valley Stream, N. Y., for which they were tried here.

The state charged that all three resulted from a lonely hearts scheme of Fernandez and Mrs. Beck to bilk women through mail romances.

Demo Move Against States' Righters Due

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—The first official move to bar States' Righters from the Democratic National Committee since they bolted the Truman ticket last fall will be made tomorrow.

The move will be made at a closed session of the Democratic Credentials Committee, a sub-group of the National Committee.

Some of the southerners who helped put Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina into the States' Rights anti-Truman column last November in a civil rights rebellion will try to retain their seats. There will also be a contest from Texas.

No Excise Tax Cut This Year, Doughton Says

Government Facing Deficit Of 5 Billions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Congressional doors were slammed today on all prospects of a reduction this year in the $1,200,000,000 of annual wartime excise taxes.

These are collected on such things as furs, jewelry, luggage, cosmetics, transportation and telephone bills.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC), of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, issued a formal statement saying that "because of a threatened federal deficit of over $5,000,000,000 in the current fiscal year—he sees no prospect for such a tax reduction now."

Advice To Consumers

And for the consumers, he added: "I believe it is important to make this clear so that the consumers will not postpone the purchase of goods subject to tax in the hope of an immediate reduction."

But Doughton held out some hope of excise tax relief in the future.

He said he has requested the congressional staff of tax experts to begin now a study of possible tax revisions and reductions for consideration of Congress next year. But there was a hint that if present excises are lowered it may mean increases in some taxes elsewhere—unless federal expenditures are reduced.

Senate Group Approved Cut

Doughton, the No. 1 tax spokesman in Congress, told reporters he was issuing the statement to clear up some of the confusion about excise taxes.

The Senate Finance Committee has approved a bill that would slash excises by about $700,000,000. This would affect all the wartime rates except those imposed on liquor.

Specialists in Congress have received reports that some consumers are delaying purchases, hoping for tax cuts. The taxes are around 20 per cent on the retail sale of many items.

Big Quake, No Casualties

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Aug. 22 (AP)—An earthquake which lasted longer than the devastating shock in Ecuador and was stronger than the San Francisco quake of 1906 struck off the coast of British Columbia last night, but there were no reports of casualties or major damage.

Threat Of War Seen In Yugo, Russian Fight

Showdown Believed Near; Situation Has Diplomats Worried

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 22 (AP)—The hardboiled struggle between Yugoslavia and Russia appeared today to be reaching beyond the name-calling stage to a threat of war.

Coming to the fore is the dynamic-laden question: What would the United States do if Josef Stalin sent the Soviet army to overthrow Yugoslavia's independent Communist, Marshal Tito.

No one knows for sure—outside the Kremlin—what is coming next. But the effort which began 14 months ago to unseat Tito when the Cominform read him out of the party developed long ago into frequent shootings along the satellite borders.

The situation has the diplomatic corps here wondering and worrying. Rumors Cause Jitters

As an example of the jitters on embassy thought it had a sound inside tip on an "invasion" date recently and hustled its staff off to Northern Yugoslavia.

Other diplomatic missions are studying a flood of rumors—most of them from irresponsible sources—about troop movements beyond the Yugoslav borders.

Such rumors are not unusual in the Balkans. But they are not set at rest by the threat voiced in a note from Moscow Saturday night to take "more effective measures" against Tito for protection of Soviet citizens who allegedly are being mistreated here.

(British newspapers Monday said the Russian note sounded like the worst threat of war since 1939.)

(British officials in London said they believed the Russian threat was only part of a war of nerves, however, and ruled out the likelihood of a shooting war.)

Tito 'Accounting' Near

(In Bucharest, Mrs. Anna Pauker, Romanian foreign minister, wrote in a newspaper article that "the time is not far off when this gang (the Tito government) will have to give an account for its crimes to the people of Yugoslavia.")

The government newspaper Borba, commented on one statement in the Moscow note which said "there can be no talk of any people's authority or any democratic socialist character of the state order in Yugoslavia."

Borba said this conclusion was aimed at "legalizing and justifying" any further undemocratic steps planned against the Yugoslav government. Borba said the Russian citizens, of whose treatment Moscow complained, had been spying.

Spaatz Says B-36 Is 'Peace Force'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Gen. Carl Spaatz testified today that except for the existence of the American B-36 bomber and the atomic bomb, Russia's armies could overrun practically all of Europe and Asia "in a relatively short time."

American possession of these two weapons, he said, is "the greatest force for peace in the world" because they maintain "a balance of power."

The retired chief of the United States Air Force, whose bombers helped blast Germany into defeat in World War II, told the House Armed Services Committee:

1. He decided late in 1946 or early in 1947 to build up a fleet of B-36s because he foresaw the potentialities of the huge six-engine bombers in the event of intercontinental warfare.

2. No outside influence, political or otherwise, swayed his decision.

Spaatz led off a parade of Air Force generals, past and present, in denying that any outside pressure led to favoritism toward the B-36 program, as charged by Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.) in a House speech last May 26.

Lucas Urges Farm Program Cutback

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) said today that the government has gone too far in its farm price support program.

Unless this program is cut back, he said, "people will be so bitter that we'll break the whole federal farm program down."

Lucas' idea: Limit mandatory government price-supporting loans and purchases to a few major crops, such as corn, wheat, cotton.

Give the Secretary of Agriculture broad authority to support prices on the so-called non-basic commodities, such as meats, dairy products, fruits and less important crops.

Dutch Student Fails In Attempt To Swim Channel

CAP GRIS NEZ, France, Tuesday, Aug. 23 (AP)—Dick Schermer, 21, Dutch student, gave up his attempt to swim the English Channel last night after four hours and 40 minutes in the water.

Despite good weather, he was unable to stand the cold water and gave up at 11:10 p. m. (5:10 p. m. EST). He said he would not make a new attempt.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Jose Cortinas, Cuban who tried unsuccessfully last week to make the swim, will try it again Wednesday.

Truman Takes Arms Program Plea To People

Says Peace Can't Be Bought Cheaply

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 22 (AP)—President Truman took to the people today his plea for $1,450,000,000 to arm this country's allies against Russian aggression as "part of the price of peace."

He declared that peace with freedom and justice "cannot be bought cheaply" as he spearheaded the administration Senate drive to restore a $580,405,000 cut voted by the House.

The President flew 930 miles from Washington to lay his case before the golden jubilee convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He called for approval of the program of military assistance to North Atlantic pact signers and other friendly nations "without delay."

Investment In Security

"The cost of such a program is considerable," he conceded, "but it represents an investment in security that will be worth many times its cost. It is part of the price of peace."

"Peace with freedom and justice can not be bought cheaply. No single program can bring it about, nor can any single nation. It can only be assured by the combined efforts of the multitudes of people throughout the world who want a secure peace."

He most said of the assistance would go to Atlantic pact countries. "Security is important to world peace."

He mentioned the continuance of aid to Greece and Turkey, and added:

"We should help Iran maintain its firm stand against Soviet pressure. And, in the Far East, two young republics—the Philippines and Korea—need military assistance if they are to maintain their national security."

Flies Back To Capital

The applause of the thousands of delegates to the convention—Mr. Truman is a member himself—had hardly died away before he was en route back to Washington in the White House plane, the "Independence."

Veterans of most of the Atlantic pact countries were in the audience as Mr. Truman cautioned that unless democracies weld a strong defense structure to prevent another war, they can be taken over "one by one."

Bumper Turkey Crop May Lower Prices

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (INS)—There should be plenty of turkeys on American dinner tables at Thanksgiving this year.

The Agriculture Department reported today that farmers are raising a 1949 turkey crop of 41,107,000 birds—the second largest output in United States history, exceeded only by the 1945 crop.

Furthermore, the supply being what it is, the department predicts that turkey prices will drop below last year's average of 46 cents a pound.

Two Children Sue Father, Alleged "Other Woman"

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—Two small children have sued a woman whom they accuse of stealing the affections of their father. They also sued their father.

The children, Dolores Ragnese, 9, and Richard, 7, asked a State Supreme Court award of $50,000 damages each from their father Ralph, and Vera Steier.

Ragnese's ex-wife, Nina, 30, filed the suit in the children's names as their guardian.

Her attorney, Bernard Kaufman, called it the first case of its kind in which children have sued their father.

Party Collects Guns To Resist Soviet Arrest

Membership Nears 5,000, Leader With Price On Head Says

BERLIN, Aug. 22 (AP)—A German Communist faction formed a new party today and quickly leagued itself with Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito "to fight the imperialist Bolshevism" of Russia.

Its leaders said they already were collecting guns to resist arrest by Russians forces in Eastern Germany if necessary.

The chief-spokesman and co-leader, 41-year-old Karl-Heinz Scholz, claimed his Free Communist Party (FKP) has a growing membership now counted at 4,000 in the Soviet sector of Berlin and 600 in the western sectors.

Scholz said a well-organized underground operation is spying on the Russians and smuggling weapons for the party.

Leader Lives In French Zone

Scholz, a wartime anti-Nazi underground fighter who had been imprisoned four years as a Reichstag star suspect in the 1930s, lives in the French sector behind steel doors and barred windows which make a fortress of his third-floor flat.

Soviet sector authorities have outlawed and put a price of 10,000 east marks (about $700) on his head. By profession he is an engineer.

The other leader elected at the FKP's organization meeting is Paul Szymanski, a head man in the Socialist Unity (SED) Party formed in 1946 by a Soviet-dictated merger of Communists and Socialists.

They said the FKP is laid out on the pattern of the original German Communist Party of the early 1920's.

FKP joined Tito's bitter anti-Cominform feud with the Kremlin by sending a telegram to Belgrade carrying assurances of sympathy and support.

Party Reported Growing

The Kremlin considers both ideological heretics; both proclaim devotion to Communism and independence from Moscow dictatorship.

"We are Communists and always have been Communists, and always will be Communists," Scholz said in proclaiming the new party.

"We have formed to fight imperialist Bolshevism. The so-called internationalism of Soviet Russia is a fraud. We reject any plans for dictatorship of the people because it inevitably becomes a dictatorship over the people," Scholz said.

"We have expanded all the time," he declared. "Soon the party will have branches in all the western zones."

Western zone authorities, however, have refused to license the FKP as a political party. The Socialist Unity Party calls it an outlaw organization.

Many Rent Control Offices Will Close

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22 (AP)—Possibly two-thirds of the rent control offices in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia will be closed by September 1, it was announced tonight.

This disclosure was made by John F. Kessel, Cleveland regional housing expediter whose office is in charge of controls in those states. He returned today from Washington where he attended a conference of regional expediter called by Tighe Woods, housing expediter.

In addition, Kessel told a reporter that 25 areas in the five-state region will be fully decontrolled. He declined to name them.

All that remains, he declared, is notification from Washington of

Writer Stabbed; Accuses Negro

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (P)—Alfred Toombs, 36-year-old writer for national magazines, was in critical condition in Johns Hopkins Hospital today from a stab wound.

He told authorities he was stabbed in the chest by a negro late last night when he and his wife stopped their car in Southern Maryland to offer assistance after a minor automobile accident.

Toombs lives in Colton, St. Mary's County.

His wife, Mrs. Constance Toombs, gave this account of the incident: "They had attended a movie in Leonardtown and were driving home when they stopped at the scene of a minor accident."

A negro, who appeared to have been severely beaten, broke away from the crowd and ran to a parked automobile.

Toombs followed, to see whether he could help the man.

When he approached the car, the man threw open the door and rushed out at the writer.

He returned to his own automobile unaware he had been stabbed.

Mrs. Toombs said she noticed blood on her husband's shirt and found the deep wound. He was given emergency treatment at a Leonardtown hospital and then transferred to Johns Hopkins.

After crashing through a second-floor skylight into the mezzanine, he was hospitalized for shock and undetermined injuries.

State Employment 26,100 Under 1948

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (P)—There were 26,100 fewer Marylanders working in non-agricultural jobs in mid-July than there were a year previous, the State Department of Employment Security reported today.

Using a mirror and tiny tools ordinarily utilized in cataract surgery, he took three neat stitches.

pitching horseshoes

by Billy Rose

ONCE EVERY couple of weeks, starting as of immediately, I'm going to list my likes and loathings for this and that. And, since we're dandruff-deep in the age of labels—an age where everything from milk to malarkey is graded and boxed, I have devised a system for rating the things that come within my eyeshot and sling-shot.

What system? Well, seeing as how this column is called "Pitching Horseshoes" in many of the papers that carry it, I'm going to use the same term: any horseshoe pitcher would. A "ringer" if something goes klunk against the stake, a "leaner" when a thing is passable but nothing to write home or Congress about, and "miss" for the ding-dong dud.

As for per instance... "RINGER"—The new 20th Century movie, "I Was a Male War Bride." Here's the funniest hunk of celluloid since "Sitting Pretty," and if your kid sister doesn't get stuck on Cary Grant all over again, rush her to a psychiatrist.

"RINGER"—"Passport to Pimlico" and "Tight Little Island," a brace of howl-heavy films from England. Unfortunately, you're not apt to see these imports in our big movie cathedrals, and more's the pity, because these are comedies that one can sit through without having to check his intelligence at the door.

"RINGER"—"The Set-Up," an RKO movie about prizefighting. It may not be as slick and edge-trimmed as "Champion," but for my money and more's it's a more distinguished job. When the picture was over, I felt my jaw for several minutes to make sure my bridgework was still in place.

"RINGER"—Actor Paul Stewart. I've seen this sensitive pro in two recent movies, once as the fight manager in "Champion" and once as the so-and-so in "The Window," and both times he rang the giant-size bell. Actor Paul is a graceful fellow, plenty man and, if some imaginative producer gives him a break, he's a cinch to jostle the Cagneys and Laddes before too many cranks of the camera.

"Miss"—According to Time Magazine, the race to buy television sets has slowed down to a stumble, and I think I know the reason why. It isn't that video is getting any worse—it just isn't getting any better. A couple of years ago, folks said, "This is only the beginning. Wait until it gets going." Well, judging from what I've seen on any set this year, it still looks like the beginning—and it's beginning to bore me.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Bill Stern tells the story of Lou Little when he was football coach at Georgetown. One year there was a youngster on the squad who was no great shakes as a football player, but whose personality served as a morale booster. Little was fond of the boy. He liked the proud way he walked arm in arm with his father on the campus from time to time. If the team was far enough ahead, he even let him get into a game occasionally.

One day, about a week before the big finale with Fordham, the boy's mother called Little on the phone. "My husband died this morning of a heart attack," she said. "Will you break the news to my boy? He'll take it better if it comes from you." Little did what was necessary, and the boy went home sorrowfully.

He was back three days later. "Coach," he begged, "I want to start in that game against Fordham. I think it's what my father would have liked most."

Little hesitated. "O.K., son, you'll start, but you'll only be in there for a play or two. You aren't quite good enough, and you know it." True to his word, Little started the boy—but never took him out. For sixty full, jarring minutes he played inspired football, sparking the team to victory.

Back in the clubhouse, Little said, "Son, you were terrific today. You never played that kind of football before. What got into you?"

The boy answered, "Remember how my father and I used to go about arm in arm? There was something about him very few people knew. My father was totally blind. This afternoon was the first time he ever saw me play."

In Montgomery, Alabama a wealthy general strode confidently into his bank and sought to cash his check for a hundred dollars. An efficiency expert had revolutionized the bank's system, however, and the paying teller declared, "I'll have to ask your identification please."

"Dammit," roared the general, "I've been a depositor here for years and you know me perfectly well." "Kindly see the second vice-president," said the teller.

The second vice-president took the general to the first vice-president and the first vice-president took him to the president. The president okayed the check just in time to keep the general from having an apoplectic stroke.

As he raked in his hundred dollars, the general suddenly demanded, "What's my balance here now?"

The teller investigated and reported rather sheepishly, "$234,405.47, sir." The general made out a new check for $234,405.47, and said, "Now, dammit, get the president to okay this one. I want it in cash." The frightened president came pattering over on the double and protested, "General, you're withdrawing your entire balance with us!"

"I certainly am," said the general. "I figure I better grab it while there's still one idiot in this bank who seems to recognize me."

Taxes And The Future Of The United States

Instead of having the tax picture in small, disconnected sketches, taxpayers now have it in one broad canvas. Thanks to the Census Bureau, Americans now know that taxes collected during the fiscal year ending last June 30 amounted to $54,500,000,000, an all-time record. This means that the tax bill per head in the United States is now $372, also the highest ever. In other words, this is each citizen's share of support for federal, state, and local government activity.

How serious is this? When one looks to the long pull, there is considerable difference of opinion. Senator Byrd, watchdog of the federal dollar, and gadfly of the Truman Administration, thinks it's not so good. He figures that taxes take one dollar of four earned. He thinks that borders on confiscation, such as has happened in Great Britain.

Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, thinks that the levy on corporations and business, which accounts for $10,300,000,000, roughly one-fifth of the total take in taxes, should be eased. He also thinks the whole tax structure should be reexamined, and tax cuts be applied to the higher income brackets to induce a greater flow of investment dollars into business.

The thinking of the Truman Administration toward the problem of taxes is on record. It was only a few weeks ago that the President was talked into giving up his demands for a $4,000,000,000 raise in personal income taxes. He has also asked for a boost in corporate taxes. His leanings toward greater social benefits, financing through government expenditures, are well known.

The tax problem underlies the nation's future well being. To double the standard of living in a quarter century, as some experts are forecasting, production must increase, with competition providing declining prices for consumer goods. At the same time, business must offer attractive enough returns so that investors will continue to provide new "expansion money." The tax load must be lightened by governmental efficiency, and federal administration must have the courage not to promise more social benefits than the government can afford.

If each of these factors is kept in proper balance then this country's future is assured. But if group greed gets control, the free society Americans enjoy will go into limbo along with other experiments that didn't work.

The Creation Of 27 New Federal Judgeships

By a vote of 73 to 8, the Senate, evidently in non-partisan mood, confirmed the nomination of Attorney General Tom Clark, Texas Democrat, as associate justice of the Supreme Court. His choice by President Truman, Missouri Democrat, was evidently not made in a non-partisan mood, for it confirmed the political lineup of our highest court at eight Democrats to one Republican—which is against a high tradition, and automatically lowers popular respect for the court.

On the same day, the two Republican Senators from New Jersey called the President's attention to a comparable spectacle presented by the lower courts of the country, as a result of the New Deal "ideology," if that is the word. Of the 263 federal judges throughout the United States and its territories, only 65, or a little less than one in four, are Republicans. Twenty-seven additional federal judgeships were created under a recent law and these were the subject of a conference, also on the same day, between Mr. Truman and the "executive vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee."

One can imagine the drift of that secret conference. What the two Senators said, however, was made a matter of public report. They urged the President to begin squaring the record—a deplorable record it is—by selecting the two New Jersey judges from the Republican Party. While they made no general recommendation let us venture one: Mr. Truman might well use that 4 to 1 ratio substantially in reverse, by appointing six new Democratic judges and 21 Republicans. The shock of pleased surprise that would run across the country would be something for the book.

Whose Vacation—The Children's Or Parents

This newspaper has been printing lately pictures of Cumberland children vacationing at the Sunshine Camp conducted annually by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club—a noble undertaking. The boys have been holding forth during the past two weeks swimming, paddling, hiking, playing community games, learning the arts of woodcraft, or just doing camp chores and liking it. We find these pictures a refreshing newspaper feature—a bit of vicarious summer leisure for the reader himself.

That, however, is only half the story. At the same time, parents are enjoying a vacation from the responsibilities and multitudinous cares of parenthood: from preparing meals, supervising baths, adjudicating scraps and telling children what to do next—most of all, a blessed vacation from the perpetual yelling of small boys. If this other side of the story were adequately photographed, it would show father and mother having a good time at vacation spots farther off than the children's camp, or just sitting on the home porch wearing the identical look of those Contented Cows in a certain advertisement.

Proper Punishment

Remembering the speeches which Lester Hutchinson made in this country in May, one cannot go into mourning over the fate which has befallen this member of Parliament. He has been expelled from the Labor Party and told, in effect, to peddle his left-wing, pro-Soviet views under different auspices.

Mr. Hutchinson, who is the seventh member of Parliament to be thus purged, accompanied Henry A. Wallace on a speaking tour of the United States a couple of months ago, and in that capacity was more Russian than English. He attacked the North Atlantic Security Pact, put the label of warmongers on Americans and, in general, followed the Wallace line. In now being made a political orphan in his own country, he is getting only what he deserves.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Preparing the Child for School

IS YOUR young son or daughter ready for first grade? Yes, if prepared psychologically to know what to expect, has received vaccinations, and is in good condition, physically. This is important, particularly for the beginner but should not be neglected even with old hands at reading, 'riting', and 'rithmetic.

The preschool child lives a rather sheltered existence in his small home circle. He has intimate contact with only a few—mother, father, brothers, sisters, and one or two neighborhood playmates. Once a week he goes to Sunday school and now and then to the movies. His opportunities for catching cold or other contagious diseases are limited.

The situation is different on entering the classroom. From the first to the last day of school, he is exposed to hundreds of youngsters, any one of whom might be ill or coming down with an illness. As a result, the school child stands a good chance of developing sore throat, scarlet fever, whooping cough, diphtheria, and various other maladies. This explains why it is essential for all children, before enrollment in school, to be protected against the more serious diseases for which vaccines are available. These include smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus.

Most tots had their original injections as babies but since the effect is beginning to wane, a second vaccination will be required against smallpox and booster shots for the other three. These extra injections are needed because not every child has been immunized and at least one in the classroom is likely to come down with an ailment of this type. In some states, only 30 per cent have been immunized against diphtheria and in such regions, diphtheria is prevalent. This is not a coincidence but represents neglect.

Since good hearing and eyesight are essential in education, all children should have eye and ear tests before entering school. More than one tot has been penalized because this was not done. The child is willing to learn but misses half the lesson because he cannot hear the teacher or see the blackboard. This is pitiful because something can be done, but first the need must be recognized. Examination will determine also whether other defects exist. An undetected heart condition may be aggravated by overexertion in the school yard. Had the abnormality been discovered beforehand, parents and teachers could have cooperated by keeping the little one as quiet as possible.

Many mothers are not looking forward to the first day of school because they anticipate a flood of tears or a temper tantrum. Untoward reactions frequently can be avoided by preparing the small fry for this new experience by bringing the matter up from time to time and describing what a classroom looks like and what goes on there. Occasionally it is advantageous to have the youngster meet the teacher one or more times so that they will be old friends on the first day of school. While not always possible, this plan is worth considering, particularly with the problem child. It also helps the teacher in handling the little fellow after mother leaves.

Reply
Common sense should prevail in problems of this nature. Every one needs salt, more so during hot weather. However, there are certain conditions, such as dropsy and kidney disorders, in which the usual amount of this chemical is not eliminated by the system. Since little salt is being excreted, the intake should be curbed. But in torrid weather, a proportional increase is allowed, if conditions warrant. Muscular cramps, nausea, and vomiting may develop when the amount of salt in the body goes too low.

Wrangle Over Cost Delays Installation Of Needed Runway-Lighting Equipment;
FBI Loyalty Check Reports On Sex Life Of Atomic Plant Workers

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Installation of essential runway-lighting equipment on scores of airports has been stalled for months because of a back-stage wrangle over costs.

Lack of these safety facilities is a serious flying hazard as many of the airfields are useless in bad weather and at night. Numerous other airports throughout the country, which have inadequate lightning equipment, also are affected by the dispute.

Principals in the protracted controversy are the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the Welsbach Corporation, Philadelphia.

Last April, Welsbach took over the sale of the patented runway-lighting equipment from the Line Material Company, Stroudsburg, Pa. The patents, owned by inventor Jack Barton, Blue Bell, Pa., are so basic that CAA attorneys doubt whether any effective runway lighting can be installed without infringement.

Immediately after coming into the picture, Welsbach announced a new price schedule. It calls for a royalty of 80 cents per runway foot, plus cost of the equipment. For the average airport this means a $4,800 charge for royalty and $26,000 for equipment.

The CAA balked at the price. The government pays half the cost for control towers and other safety installations. CAA contends Welsbach's figures mean an added burden on taxpayers.

The company denies that. It claims its schedule will cut costs $900 on a 6,000-foot runway. CAA denies the denial. It says Welsbach will boost expenditures $4,000 for an average airport.

Cold Sober
The big party staged by the Indian Embassy to commemorate its independence was a unique experience for Washington officialdom.

The party was cold sober. Everybody who was anybody attended the evening soiree, Madame Pandit, Indian ambassador, was lovely in a strikingly beautiful native gown.

The bountiful supply of alcoholic beverages usual at such affairs was totally missing.

Served instead were coffee, vanilla ice cream, and cakes. There was no limit on these. Guests ate all they wanted. Many had several big helpings.

But everybody was cold sober—and apparently enjoyed the unique experience very much.

Note—A Korean party the same day was an imbibing's delight.

Atomic Probe
Democratic members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee will try to force a report this week on the long-drawn-out investigation instigated by Senator Bourke Hickenlooper, (R-Iowa). The probe has been out of the limelight for weeks while the committee studied secret personnel records of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Some of these records have made spicy reading. They are reports on the sex life of workers in atomic plants. The workers were checked by FBI loyalty agents.

Rep. Henry M. Jackson, (D-Wash.), asked Hickenlooper what the connection was between these reports and his case against the Atomic Commission.

"These people might disclose valuable secrets under the influence of love or liquor," he replied.

One reason for the committee's delay has been Hickenlooper's absence. He was in Iowa mending political fences. He faces a tough re-election battle next year.

Democratic committeemen want to issue a formal report by September 15. Their report is certain to be a vigorous refutation of Hickenlooper's charge of "incredible mismanagement" by AEC. He and other Republican members will undoubtedly put out a report of their own.

Taking No Chance

Retired General John DeWitt is taking no chances upon returning to California. As wartime commander of the Fourth U. S. Army, he issued the order removing Japanese from the west coast. Now living in the east, DeWitt wants to take up residence in San Francisco. But before doing so, he sought legal opinion on whether he would be subject to action by a Japanese for the order issued seven years ago.

No Help

During a Senate session, Vice President Barkley tried to catch the attention of Democratic Floor Leader Scott Lucas. Barkley whispered "psst" several times, but Lucas didn't hear him. Sen. Kenneth Wherry, Republican floor leader, did.

"Alben," whispered Wherry, "if it's about a trip to Springfield, Ill., and Scott can't go, I will. Provided, of course, there is a stopover in St. Louis."

"You wouldn't be any help at all," grinned Barkley.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

Asia—Summing Up: I

WASHINGTON—

The odd sense of unreality which most travelers experience on their return from abroad is curiously heightened in one who has returned to Washington from the Far East. For it is perfectly clear that, if Southwest Asia is allowed to go the way of China, an unthinkable war is virtually inevitable. And it is perfectly clear that Southeast Asia will go the way of China—and very soon—unless a major effort is made to reverse the process which is now under way.

Yet—and this causes the sense of unreality—there is no atmosphere of urgency at all in Washington. There is a good deal of talk. There is a good deal of worrying. A good many policy papers are being written. But nothing very much is being done, and nobody seems to be contemplating doing anything very much for a long time to come.

If nothing is done, the sequence of events, as forecast by the most experienced observers in the Far East (and as undoubtedly forecast by V. M. Molotov, now directing the Soviet power drive in Asia) is broadly as follows: The Chinese Communist armies will reach the borders of Indo-China and Burma while the non-Communist government in Burma and the non-Communist Bao Dai regime in Indo-China are both still pathetically feeble. The promised "material support" will be delivered to the Communist forces in these countries, and Burma and Indo-China will rapidly be transformed into "new democracies."

Siam Will Follow

When Burma and Indo-China go, Siam will follow—on this point every one (including the Siamese) is unanimous. The long, irregular Siamese-Malay border will then become an avenue of infiltration and supply for the Communist guerrillas in Malaya, and the British position in Malaya will be rendered untenable. The rest of Southeast Asia gone, the pressure on the harried, new-born Nationalist government in Indonesia will be too great to withstand.

All this is not some sort of unpleasant nightmare about small faraway countries with peculiar names. It is what is now extremely likely to happen. It is likely to begin to happen, not in the distant future, but in a matter of months, before this year is out.

This is not merely the opinion of this reporter. It is the opinion of every single observer on the spot. It is necessary to consider what it will mean to the United States if Southeast Asia, together with China, is organized under the authority of the Kremlin. In the first place, it will mean either that Japan's vital industrial potential will be added to the Kremlin's vast Asiatic empire, or that, to prevent this happening, the United States will be forced to transform Japan into a tightly held military colony.

With the inexorable need to feed her people, with her export market in the United States destroyed, it is nonsense to imagine that a non-Communist Japan could hold out against Communist pressure when her whole natural trading area had been organized under Communist control. The United States could, and probably would, attempt to hold Japan permanently by military means. But ultimately this could only be done, if it could be done at all, by brutally repressive measures.

Richest Reservoir of Resources

In the second place, Southeast Asia is incomparably the richest remaining reservoir of untapped resources in the world. Leave aside for the moment the strategic meaning of a Communist Southeast Asia. Consider only the economic meaning: If these riches are added to the Soviet power center, and subtracted from the West, the kind of overturn in the world power balance will have occurred which in the past has always resulted in war.

It is difficult to write about what is happening in the Far East without sounding shrill and hysterical. And it must be said at once that the sequence of events outlined above, although it is now quite clearly likely to happen, need not necessarily happen.

To balance the picture, it is necessary to add the assets which the West still commands in Asia. Some of these are: non-Communist governments in Japan, Korea, the

International Agreement On Air Power Held Needed

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Like a breath of fresh air in a world of staleness comes the little-noticed but all-important action of the House of Representatives in amending the "declaration of principles" in the arms aid bill so as to proclaim anew the purpose of the United States to strive for a reduction in armament when the opportunity arises.

Some testimony from the Secretary of Defense before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs recently, indicated a callousness and cynicism on the subject of disarmament. It remained for Norman Thomas, Socialist, to enunciate before a Senate committee a different doctrine of morality in international affairs today. He urged that, while our defenses be built up, America make provision for a possible diminution of armament spending coincident with an effort to secure peace.

Almost at the same time that Mr. Thomas was testifying, the House of Representatives was unanimously passing an amendment to the preamble of the arms aid bill reading as follows:

"The Congress reaffirms the policy of the United States to seek agreements to provide the United Nations with armed forces as contemplated in the charter and agreements to achieve universal control of weapons of mass destruction and universal regulation and reduction of armaments, including armed forces, under adequate safeguards to protect complying nations against violation and evasion."

This is in line with tradition and historic policy for decades past. Almost every appropriation bill for naval building passed by the House of Representatives for many years contained a proviso that the President of the United States was authorized to terminate the construction at any time when it appeared that an international agreement to reduce armaments was being achieved.

For generations the idea of a "naval holiday" has symbolized the same purpose. The United States at no time, outside war years, has authorized a standing arm of a size which could be regarded as engaging in an armament race. Today, however, the building up of a powerful Navy and Strategic Air Forces constitutes one phase of an armament race which is designed to balance the presence of Russia's huge standing army.

Thus, the familiar argument is that Russia is bent on aggression and that the Soviets intend to attack the Allied world and deprive their peoples of liberties. This is the thesis for armament building that has dominated militaristic thinking throughout the ages.

Instead of calling for an immediate demobilization of the Red Army and promising that American and Allied armaments would then be held in abeyance, no move is made by the President toward negotiating a reduction in armament. It is argued that Russia already has 200 divisions in her Army and that the Allies couldn't mobilize as many as 40, even with the European arms program now being considered. For this reason, the proposal is that the United States maintain a Strategic Air Force large enough to attack Russian targets instantly.

Agreement On Air Power

Sooner or later there must be an international agreement on air power just as there has been on naval building in the past. A certain measure of disarmament has already been accomplished so far as the U. S. Navy is concerned by cutting down its own air power—as if air power were something worth spending money for only when it arises from or flies to land bases.

Reduction of the efficiency of America's naval air power is now an accomplished fact and Secretary Johnson is getting ready to cut the whole Navy virtually in half next year. Land-based air forces, however, are being increased, and this is the direction in which a reduction in armament could next be examined. For if the cut in the Navy were part of a general reduction of armament intended to bring a mood of peace in the world, then it would be well worth the sacrifices made and it would warrant a similar cut in land-based air power provided, of course, agreements to demobilize the red army can be consummated.

Usually Congress directs the President to negotiate agreements to reduce armament. If the militarists who nowadays influence policy in high places can be persuaded to step aside, it may be that diplomacy can start again to see if there isn't some way to cut down Russian armament, too.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Fighting With Books

I thought that I had had my say about Professor Ise's "economics," only to discover that I am accused of not having adequately read his book. Among those who make such an accusation is Chancellor Deane W. Malott of the University of Kansas who says:

"The work is one on economics, not on religion and Mr. Sokolsky has evidently not read enough of the book to realize the scope and portent of its coverage."

I do not know Chancellor Malott and he does not know me and we have never conversed on this or any other topic; therefore he cannot know of his own knowledge whether I have or have not read this particularly massive and, to me, interesting volume. With characteristic academic arrogance, the Chancellor seems to take it for granted that journalists grab paragraphs out of the tomes of the learned.

In "The Topeka State Journal," Professor Ise is quoted to have said: "Anyone who read this book thru once and understands everything in it is a genius." Not being a genius, I have read this book only once, which in itself was a chore. I presume that if only a genius can understand it, the author himself must be a genius of the highest order, comparable to Einstein or the new god-on-earth, Karl Marx, himself.

However, I still say that the book is slanted. Everything that I write is biased, partisan and if you wish, slanted. Only a moron passes the mid-century mark, working, reading, studying in a field, without developing a philosophy of life and evaluating what comes within his purview from the base of that philosophy.

Therefore to say that Professor Ise gives his material a point of view, or a slant, as we Philippines, Siam, Burma, Indonesia, and above all India; the economic weakness of Communist China; the great potentialities for a sharply improved standard of living throughout Southeast Asia; the weakness and division of most of the native Communist movements; the unpopularity in Southeast Asia of the Chinese minorities who have clearly been designated Molotov's political shock troops; and perhaps above all, Asiatic nationalism. The Soviets have exploited this nationalism against the West, but it is a two-edged sword which can also be turned against Soviet imperialism.

Forthcoming reports in this space will outline the views of the best-informed observers and officials on the spot as to what can be done to exploit these assets, and to prevent the disaster which has already occurred in China from becoming the final catastrophe of the loss of all Asia. But the essential ingredient of every plan of action in Asia can be stated in one sentence. It is the sense of urgency in the United States which is required if the effort to save Asia is to be made. For the effort must be great, and it must be made very soon.

say it journalistically, is only to say that he is not a dope. The impartial, unbiased, the dancing-on-two-sides, the fence-sitter is unworthy of notice.

The only point is that I do not like his slant and would object to my children being reared according to it. For instance, let us take his discussion of fascism. Professor Ise says:

"... Confining our attention to the countries which are or have been dominated by fascism, we find their government supported, almost without exception, by the army and most big business . . ."

Yet, Mussolini was a Socialist, editor of the left-wing socialist newspaper, "Avanti," which had been developed by Angelica Balabanoff, who later became the first secretary of the Third International. No great industrialists created Mussolini; he was a product of a labor revolution after a disastrous war.

Nor was he a product of the Italian Army; rather the Army was incapable of resisting a mass movement. Mussolini, like Lenin, was the historic result of the defeat of an existing order by the disintegrating forces of war.

Including Japan among the fascist countries, Professor Ise notes that Japan was different but he misses the point that in that country, by any definition, such business men as Baron Dan, the head of Mitsui, would have been categorized as liberals—in the sense that John Stuart Mill was a liberal. They feared the Army and were ultimately destroyed by the Army. I reported this in a book I once wrote called "The Tinderbox of Asia." Now, alas, out of print.

Of course, the academicians do not pay too much attention to journalists but without us, they would be wandering in a maze of what they call a priori conclusions—which of course many of them do anyhow. For instance, this is one of Professor Ise's conclusions:

"... We may be headed merely for a reactionary capitalism in which free speech will be considerably abridged and labor unions will have to fight against formidable opposition. If powerful capitalist groups could capture both the Republican and Democratic parties and select conservative candidates for both parties, they would need to take away the people's vote, as Mussolini and Hitler did. The American people are accustomed to this form of disfranchisement and might not mind it very much."

But what would happen if powerful labor unions captured both parties—as they have done already in New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and California? Is that better?

Rights-Of-Way For Bridge To Cost $100,000

Roads Commission
Releases Figures
On Keyser Project

KEYSER, W. Va.—The State of West Virginia will spend more than $100,000 for rights-of-way in connection with the building of the Keyser-McCoolle bridge, now under construction, according to a statement released by the West Virginia State Road Commission yesterday.

The figures show that $85,366.74 will be expended in paying for moving buildings and remodeling another. The cost of remodeling the bus terminal building, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hesse, and the E. G. Kimmell building on the corner of Mineral and Armstrong Streets was not given by the commission.

The Wippel building will be used by the road commission after it is remodelled. The commission is retaining title to the two-story stucco apartment building formerly owned by Kimmell. The commission announces that it has not decided what course will be taken in relation to this building. It may be sold at auction.

The commission spent no money for rights-of-way through Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company property.

Among the figures released by the commission, are $6,500 for Lots 160 and 161 on Mineral Street, owned by W. A. Welch; $3,250 for parts of Lot No. 162, owned by Mary Elizabeth Bomberger and others; John E. and Beulah E. Hesse receive $2,000 for parcel of land running 30 feet on Mineral Street, and extending back to Cherry Alley for a distance of 24 feet.

Lorenz and Mary Wippel receive $20,000 for 20 feet of Lot 164, all of Lot No. 165, and five feet of Lot No. 166 with a two-story brick building.

Edward G. Otis L. Kimmell receive $35,000 for parts of Lots 166, 167, 66 and 67, with two-story apartment building and two-story brick building. The State Road Commission received title to the apartment building.

Maude M. and W. W. Long receive $2,500 for parcel of land of approximately 18 feet on Davis Street, extending back to Cherry Alley. The two-story building on the land was moved by the commission.

Clyde W. and Geraldine G. Gardner receive $500 for part of an unimproved lot; Dr. W. J. Koelze received $100 for a strip of land along the Potomac River on the northern right-of-way line of Riverside Drive in Potomac Improvement Company addition to the city of Keyser, and Roy H. and Ida Davidson receive $300 in a compromise statement for surrender of leasehold right to the Wippel Building.

Moving costs paid by the State commission amounting to $25,216.74, include $90 to Raymond and James Nelson for razing building and clearing ground of what remained following a fire that destroyed a building on Lots 160 and 161; Donald B. McGill, contractor, $8,499.21 for cutting off front and remodeling Wippel Building; Donald B. McGill, contractor, $6,929.18 for moving two-story Kimmell apartment building, and the same contractor received $1,314.35 for moving Potomac Edison garage to new foundation; J. B. Stevenson, contractor, received $4,736 for moving Hesse building, and the same contractor received $3,648 for moving the residence of Maude M. Long.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(While Louella O. Parsons is on vacation her column will be written by Dorothy Manners.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 22 (INS)—When Madeleine Carroll gets back in this country around September 1 she's expected to have some interesting matrimonial plans to tell.

Roy Del Ruth has something interesting to tell her about George Callahan's story, "Mary Ellen." If Del Ruth can't get Madeleine as the star of this charming yarn, a sort of feminine "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," he is not going to make the picture. The part of a beloved school teacher is just created for Madeleine, according to the director.

But before she can accept any picture deal, she will have to fulfill her road engagements in "Goodbye, My Fancy."

The most surprised girl in Hollywood is Helen Westcott, pretty 20th Century-Fox starlet, cast only in "bits" who has just been handed the lead opposite Gregory Peck in "The Gun Fighter." Flabbergasted with delight is a better description of her condition.

When Nunnally Johnson, the producer, and Director Henry King were casting a previous picture, "Three Came Home," they used Helen as a femme foil for certain actors they were testing. When they looked at the results they found themselves watching Helen more closely than the testes.

So, when the quest started for the girl who gets Peck in their new production, the idea hit both men at the same time — the idea being, Helen.

At last a starting date is set for "Annie Get Your Gun." Director George Sidney has been told to get ready to shoot starting September 12 — with Betty Hutton in the Annie role, natch.

Judy Garland is fully recovered from the shock of losing her pet singing role. She doesn't talk about that debacle any longer and has asked her friends not to.

Betty Hutton must be made of iron as well as curves. If she gets in one deep breath between the finish of "Let's Dance" with Fred Astaire before reporting for "Annie," I'll be surprised.

Walt Disney likes making pictures in England so much that he is planning a second full-length feature to be produced there next year.

The cartoon maestro arrived in New York with his wife and two daughters last Friday, completely enthusiastic over the cooperation he had received on "Treasure Island."

Disney says all this stuff about the British workers resenting us and making things difficult is not true. "Certainly not the way I do things — and we can judge only by our own experiences," he said. Before he left he assigned Novelist Lawrence Sanders to do an original — but if it doesn't turn out as expected, he will make "Three Wishes," in Ireland, instead.

Hollywood in shorts: Marilyn Maxwell has been a sick girl with food poisoning — swears her face actually turned green without benefit of technicolor.

Girl in No. 1 spot in the fan mail department at Warners is a newcomer (to the top spot) — Doris Day.

Frank Morgan has dropped 14 pounds making "Key to the City" from so much cavorting around in his fire chief role.

Ted Faulkner is still doing plenty of wonderful things for those Signal Hill kids. Besides his regular Saturday parties, he took 600 children to Morongo City to see Leo Carrillo in "The Cisco Kid" last week. This week he is chartering buses to take them to Pioneer Town to watch Gene Autry shoot scenes on "Beyond the Purple Hills."

Monica Lewis still writes to Ronald Reagan, but it's just a penpal romance now.

Tyrone Power makes no secret of hoping the expected baby will be a boy. He and Linda have already picked out the name — Tyrone Power III.

Burgess Meredith was on a television show in New York and got a particularly long and loud reception from the audience — which surprised him a bit. Maybe sympathy over the Goddard divorce goes on?

Dorothy Lamour and Bill Howard are going on a yachting cruise — but the boat will stay close to the shore line even if the baby isn't expected until October.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Hoffman In Germany
FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 22 (AP)—Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman and Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman arrived here yesterday to confer with Western Allied officials on economic developments in Western Germany.

20-YEAR LAXATIVE HABIT BROKEN!

"Considering I was constipated for over 20 years and laxatives gave me no relief—it was amazing to find eating KELLLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily helped me so much!" Mrs. H. Rutledge, 120 Corry Ave., Aero Vista, Warrington, Florida. Just one of many unsolicited letters praising ALL-BRAN. If troubled by constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, try this: eat an ounce of crisp ALL-BRAN every day, drink plenty of water. If not satisfied after 10 days, return empty box to Kellogg's, Battle Creek, Mich. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

Don't lower your charm quotient by overlooking the fine points of good carriage! Make today's secret your habit!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Do you know what makes the difference between a ragged finish and a smooth polish in your appearance? It is the fine points of carriage! Without them, you just can't achieve that smooth polish.

I'm sure you know what I mean. I'm sure, for instance, that you've all been part of a group seated in a room, when a lovely looking woman makes her appearance. Then she sits down in sudden, violent fashion that cancels the fine effect she has just created! She heaves one leg over the other, tugs at her skirt, scrooches back in her chair. Conversation stops dead because of the competition from her act. And while she does stop the show, she gets no applause.

Eye-Catchers To Avoid
Although your eyes were filled with beauty a moment ago, now all they can see are bony knees, thighs crossed in a bulge, calves pressed flat against a chair. These charm detractors will wreck even the most elaborate preparations for a beautiful appearance!

Why does any woman stop just this short of perfection, when her goal is obtainable by taking care of small details? Her only excuse must be that she doesn't know how. So you'll never make such mistakes, let me give you the secret.

The secret lies in crossing your legs before you sit down, instead of rearranging them after you are seated. It's easy. Cross your legs at the ankles while you're still standing. Keep your weight forward and your toes pointing in a straight line with your body.

Now summon all the control you have in your knees and let them lower you gently into your chair. What a difference! Do you prefer to cross your legs before you sit by placing the back at the knees? Then arrange them of one knee against the can of the other. The leg that leaves the floor as you descend will take care of itself and slide into place naturally.

Don't expect anyone to say, "My she sits down beautifully!" But do be happy in the knowledge that awkward motions will never detract from your appearance or keep you from being anything but especially pleasant to look at!

P. S. from J. R. P. "WHAT'S YOUR LINE?" Horizontal, vertical and diagonal lines make a world of difference in what clothing will do for (or to) your figure! This "P.S." gives you complete information on handling lines to your own best advantage. Write to John Robert Powers in care of this newspaper, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Tomorrow: The road to slimmness made easy.

Juvenile Court Cases Decrease

With 344 cases handled in the Allegany County Juvenile Court so far, the number should come somewhat below 1948's total of 870. Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem said that $93,853.13 was collected last year for the support of minor children. These payments were for support under decrees passed in Circuit Court and through action in the Juvenile Court.

The largest number of cases handled were for non-support of wives and children, Magistrate Stakem said.

Of 1948's 870 cases, only 130 involved juveniles directly, he noted.

Man Ordered From Allegany County

Found guilty of sleeping in a public place and being an habitual drunkard, Hoy Calain or Hoyt McClain, Bowden, W. Va., was sentenced to 30 days in Allegany County Jail by Trial Magistrates Court yesterday.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew suspended the sentence on condition the man leaves Allegany County and returns to Bowden.

Tax Collector Is Placed On Regular Salary

Cumberland's tax collector was put on a straight yearly salary of $4,800 instead of a commission yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

The new ordinance was passed unanimously after acceptance of five amendments proposed by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholz.

Two of the amendments concerned the striking out of the assistant tax collector from the ordinance. The original ordinance included the designation of both the collector and his assistant. The assistant is already on salary.

The third amendment set forth the straight monthly salary of $400 and struck out the reference to bonuses. The original ordinance called for a salary of $3,250 a year plus bonus of $408.

This amendment was opposed by Mayor Thomas S. Post who asserted that $350 a month was enough. The proposal was carried by a 4-1 vote, however.

The section referring to the term of the collector was eliminated from the ordinance in its entirety since the term is provided for by the City Charter. The last amendment pertained to a section number.

R. J. Shepherd, the new collector, was recently appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late James M. Conway which expires next March 31.

The city's budget and tax rate ordinance were also approved by the Mayor and Council.

Operating expenses of $1,274,630 will be about 20 per cent higher than last year, but the tax rate of $1.25 will remain the same.

An ordinance to raise the bingo tax from five cents to ten cents was tabled for its second reading next week.

Reynolds Asks Optimistic View Of Recession

The Mayor and Council unanimously seconded a statement from Commissioner Edgar Reynolds yesterday expressing faith in the future of Cumberland in spite of the current recession.

The Street and Public Property Commissioner stated that recent newspaper and nation-wide radio publicity concerning depressed conditions in the city has been "something of an embarrassment to our citizens."

In a prepared statement, Reynolds told the Council that although the Celanese Corporation has furloughed a great many workers, other local industries, large and small, have maintained a high average of employment.

Reynolds expressed confidence that the Celanese would soon become stabilized and that Cumberland will see an upward trend of business along with the rest of the nation.

Bids on a one and one-half ton dump truck for the Street Department and a carry-all for the Engineering Department were referred to the Commissioner Reynolds for tabulation and report.

The St. George Motor Company submitted the low bid of $1,895.35 on the truck. Other bids include Gurley Brothers, $2,400; Eiler Chevrolet, $2,284.45; Collins GMC Truck Company, $2,278.10 and $2,393; Light and Decker Company, $2,259.16, and Steina Motor Company, $2,375.

Bids on the carry-all included the Steina Motor Company, $1,649.25; Eiler Chevrolet, $1,862.75, and Collins GMC Truck Company, $1,712.79.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was authorized to issue a check for $32,000 to the Seagrave Corporation, Columbus, Ohio, in payment for a new tractor-drawn aerial truck for the Fire Department which has tested and approved the vehicle.

Under the amended order, fire and extended insurance coverage was increased. On city-owned buildings and contents, insurance was raised to $7,398.94 and on the building and contents of the Evitts Creek Water Company to $2,615.30.

Celanese Honors Warehouse Head

Raymond A. Goetz, Bowling Green, supervisor of the Celanese plant yarn warehouse here, was presented a wrist watch yesterday by Harrison C. Givens, Jr., plant manager, in recognition of 25 years' service.

Goetz entered the employ of the Celanese August 22, 1924. He received a 25-year pin and certificate from Howard Taylor, superintendent of yarn production.

Route 40 Blocked For Three Hours

A trailer-tractor which jackknifed on Siding Hill mountain yesterday at about 5 a. m. blocked traffic on Route 40 for about three hours.

Trooper R. P. McGuire said the truck swerved into an embankment and back across the highway. The driver, Francis Bowen, Baltimore, was uninjured.

Dorsey Draws 30-Day Term

A 23-year-old Mt. Savage resident, Joseph Edward Dorsey, was sentenced to 30 days in County Jail yesterday at a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court on a larceny charge.

Dorsey pleaded guilty to stealing $12 in cash entrusted to him by his employer, Alvin Lepley, who operates a fruit stand near Mt. Savage. The money was not recovered, authorities said.

Police said Dorsey was released several months ago from the House of Correction, where he had served 20 months on a charge of breaking and entering.

Lepley employed the young man in an effort to aid him in returning to a normal life, police said. They added that Lepley left the money with Dorsey to determine whether the latter "could be trusted."

State Trooper William Baker arrested Dorsey Saturday at the House of Correction. Detectives Ernest Powell and Thomas J. See.

A five-dollar postage stamp was the largest denomination ever issued to the public in the United States. Some $100 stamps have been issued purely for official use.

Eight Teachers

to the Science Department at Fort Hill.

Miss Murphy, who will instruct in the social studies and English departments at Fort Hill, is a graduate of the University of Alabama, class of 1948, and has been doing graduate work at the University of Florida this past summer.

Teslovich, who has been named special education teacher at Beall, is a graduate of State Teachers College, California, Pa., where he majored in industrial arts and social studies.

Kelly, a graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College this year, will teach science and mathematics at Beall. He holds a Bachelor of Science Degree with majors in science and social studies.

Miss Cook, also a graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College, where she majored in social studies and science, has been assigned to the Social Studies Department of Cresaptown Junior High.

Miss Alexander, a graduate of Western Maryland College in June this year after majoring in English and science, will teach English, reading and social studies at Bruce.

Miss Borror, a member of Grantsville High School faculty for the past four years, will teach home economics at Oldtown. She is a graduate of Ridgeley W. Va., High School, class of 1941, and holds a degree from West Virginia University.

During 1948, 93 per cent of stolen automobiles was recovered.

Manager Of Elks Home Resigns

Richard B. Carlson, manager of the Elks Home here since its dining room opened last November, has resigned effective August 29.

Carlson has accepted a position with the Fred B. Prophet Company, Detroit, Mich., as assistant manager in one of the firm's industrial cafeterias.

No successor has been named for the position of manager here.

Carlson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlson, Windsor Road, and his wife and seven-month old son will leave Cumberland September 12.

A graduate of Allegheny High School and Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., Carlson now lives in LaVale.

Mt. Savage Man Loses Right Leg

Thomas J. Chambers, 43, Mt. Savage, was admitted at 10 a.m. yesterday to Allegheny Hospital for amputation of his right leg which was crushed by a small mine car. He was reported in fair condition.

Charles Nicol, 50, Union Street, Lonaconing, fractured his left forearm when a horse pushed him against some timber while he was working for the Consolidated Fuel Company. Attaches of Memorial Hospital where he was admitted at 10 p.m. said he was in good condition.

Police Check $200 Looting Of Gas Station

A breaking and entering at the National Service Station, Baltimore Pike, that netted the intruders close to $200 in cash and merchandise was being investigated by Maryland State Police last night.

Trooper William P. Baker, criminal investigator, said entrance was gained sometime after midnight Sunday, by breaking a pane of glass in the front door.

The loot included $50 in small change, one tire, 25 cartons of cigarettes and five cartons of chewing gum.

"Boer" is pronounced like "moor," not "bore."

last person to see the two before the accident occurred on Route 28 a short distance from the tavern.

The coroner's jury set the time of the accident at "about 11:45 p. m." and clinic attaches said the girl died at 1:30 a. m. the following morning. Police said the door latches of the car were "good."

Ayers who had been held in jail since the girl's death on a charge of operating an automobile with an improper driver's permit was represented by counsel at the hearing.

Oates, who presided at the arraignment, said Army officials indicated they would fly Ayers back to his post where he was due to report at the end of his leave.

The evidence will be turned over to the Grant County grand jury when it convenes on the second Tuesday in November, Oates declared.

Appeal Filed For Shoe Repair Shop

J. Leonard Nelson, Bedford Road, filed an appeal with the Board of Zoning Appeals yesterday for a permit to locate a shoe repair shop on the first floor of a two-story brick building at 511 Decatur Street.

The premises, owned by H. L. Ricker, Flintstone, were formerly used as a dental laboratory. City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer denied the application because the building is located in a Residential C zoning district.

Miss Madalen Dahl, 31 Cumberland Street, secured a permit to operate a beauty shop at that address on a part-time basis.

A permit was granted to Albert

C. Owens, 621 Montreal Avenue, to build a one-story garage at the rear of his home, with cost estimated at $140. The building will have frame walls covered with asbestos, and a rubberoid roof.

Ohio Motorist Fined $100.75

Ernest M. Mercer, Alliance, O., was fined $100.75 in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Mercer was arrested early Sunday morning on Route 220 at Roberts Place by State Trooper Tom Barton. A second charge of reckless driving was withdrawn by Trooper Barton.

Three Families

Bennett said he had very little insurance on the building, which was built around 1910 by the Honest Furniture Company. The three-floor warehouse was covered with artificial brick siding.

The warehouse section was about 40 feet by 120 feet, while the apartment section was about 25 by 40 feet. Bennett said he had "no idea" of the amount of equipment inside the building.

Bennett said the blaze was the second since he took over the structure in 1921. One night in 1943 a fire was set in the building at about 11 o'clock, and an arrest was made. The prisoner, however, was released.

Israel Will Be "America's Town Meeting" Topic

By SYD KRONISH
(For C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Israel's most pressing issue will be the topic for the seventh of "America's Town Meeting" broadcasts from world capitals, when the American radio audience will hear a discussion "Should Immigration To Israel Be Restricted," Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. over ABC. The broadcast from the Habimah Theater in Tel Aviv was transcribed for re-broadcast in the U. S.

"The Army's Role" and "The Navy's Role" will be described Tuesday by Army Secretary Gordon Gray and Navy Secretary Francis P. Matthews, respectively, on the second broadcast of "The Nation's Defenses," a special five-program series over CBS at 10:30 p. m.

For a program of laughs and jokes, "Can You Top This" can be heard over MBS at 8 p. m. Gag-busters Senator Ford, Harry Hershfield, Joe Laurie, Jr., and Peter Donald vie with each other to top listener-submitted jokes.

It's Dinah Shore's turn to sing over CBS at 7:15 p. m. with Jack Smith. Dinah alternates with Margaret Whiting on this program which specializes in good singing of top popular tunes.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Temper, Temper

Most of the time he persisted in reading them the Atlantic Charter, which presumably they'd already read. Several times Marquis Childs tried to get Hurley to commit himself on what ought to be done about China. Hurley's reply: "Well, what would you do?" Childs pointed out gently that it was Hurley who was being interviewed, not Childs. He got nowhere with this tactic.

Hurley isn't the first public figure to make a fool of himself on "Meet the Press" and he probably won't be the last. Still, the Senators, the Ambassadors, the administrators who have yet to appear on that program might take counsel from Hurley's actions and be prepared to bring their opinions along and to leave their tempers at home. Of course, one of the great attractions of "Meet the Press" is the liveliness and frequent acerbity of the discussion. But there are limits and Mr. Hurley went quite a distance beyond those limits.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I hear the big networks have finally dropped their old rules and stiff drink concerns can now advertise their products coast to coast.

This may open up new thrills for you listeners.

When Phil Harris heard about it, he was relieved. Up till now he's been doing all the advertising alone.

But in case the announcers try to sample their products before show time, there's apt to be difficulty. By the time they get on the air, all they'll be able to advertise is black coffee and an ice pack.

Of course, it's dangerous for a comedian to have a sponsor who advertises hard drinks. It's not that he'll get tipsy and ruin his timing. He's just likely to trip while he's making his getaway.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(By International News Service)

The nail on the thumb of suspicion is a bit bruised. It is not the first time a man hit himself hanging up the other guy's picture.

Everybody in Washington either has a deep freezer or is in one. But nobody considers that bribery. It is merely neat housekeeping.

If you are not on the committee you are in front of one. And you can balance the books in Washington if you tear out enough pages.

It's wonderful down there. It's the life of a spare tire. You go on all the trips and have none of the wear and tear.

Sir John Popham, a one-time chief justice of England who presided at the trials of Sir Walter Raleigh and Guy Fawkes, is said to have been a highwayman in his youth.

tance beyond those limits. "Meet the Press," after all, is supposed to be a market place for the free exchange of opinion. It isn't a bear pit.

I have engaged in mild conflict recently with a number of experts concerning baseball by radio versus baseball by television. There is quite a large body of opinion, I'm surprised to learn, that holds radio still tells a customer more about the ball game than television. I think this is nonsense. Even if TV is not and never will be a satisfactory substitute for being in the ball park, you can see a good deal—about a third, I'd say—of the ball game which is better than nothing.

I saw Duke Snider's disputed triple (or homer, depending on how Ford Frick looks on it) in the Braves game probably more clearly than Umpire Gore who isn't equipped with telephoto lenses. Television, I admit, gives you less chatter but that isn't necessarily a bad thing. A large part of the radio chatter is devoted to largely useless information unless you happen to be cramming for a quiz program. The other day I learned, among other things, from one of the baseball commentators that Charles Bruce Edwards was the only major league player named after three kings, and that the first curve ball was thrown—I didn't catch either the date or the place.

But the most startling juxtaposition of information was the statement that a Braves batter "is expecting a child pretty soon and he's now batting .278."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

FLASH OF INSPIRATION
UPON THE rarest of occasions, a keen declarer gets a flash of inspiration which shows him how to make a contract that at first glance seems to depend on an almost hopeless long shot. When such an inspired play works, the memory of it is a thing of beauty and a joy forever to him. He can get a special kick out of it if he made the pretty maneuver in a duplicate tournament, in which others all failed in the same task.

Now the spade J and 10 were unblocked. He used them to discard his own two low clubs and then triumphantly gave up one trick to the heart Q.

One of the defenders called him lucky, but he pointed out that this play had a much better chance than finding the two missing trump honors unguarded. All he needed was to have the holder of three trumps also possessing three or four spades.

After West leads the spade K, East playing the 7, and switches to the club 5, how should South insure success of his 4-Hearts?

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East South West North
Pass 1 Pass 2
Pass 3 Pass 3
Pass 4 Pass 4
Pass 6 Pass 4

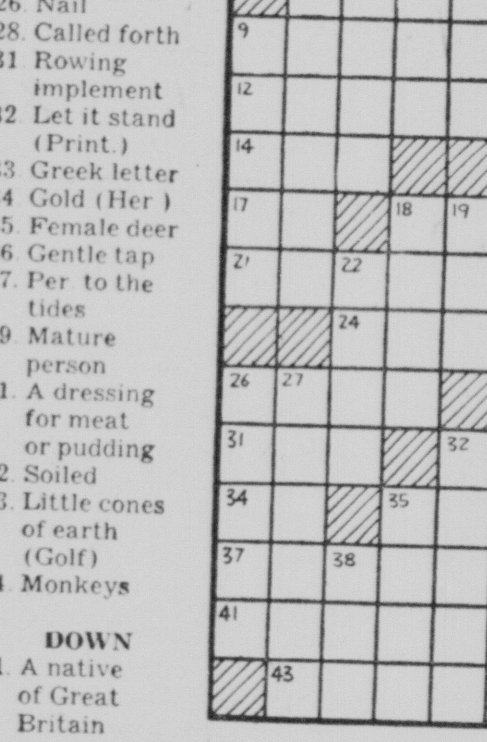

Every South in a duplicate reached a heart contract on this deal, some only a game, but most the slam. Only one of them, however managed to take enough tricks for the slam. All but he, upon seeing the diamond Q lead, decided that success depended on finding the missing trump honors both in one hand without any guard. As a consequence, they lost one trick in trumps and one in clubs, having discarded the

The trees of this country have had a perfectly terrible time as it is, what with the lumber barons of the '80s, the chestnut blight and one thing and another. It's too much to ask of them to sacrifice to the onslaught of a lot of television maniacs with axes.

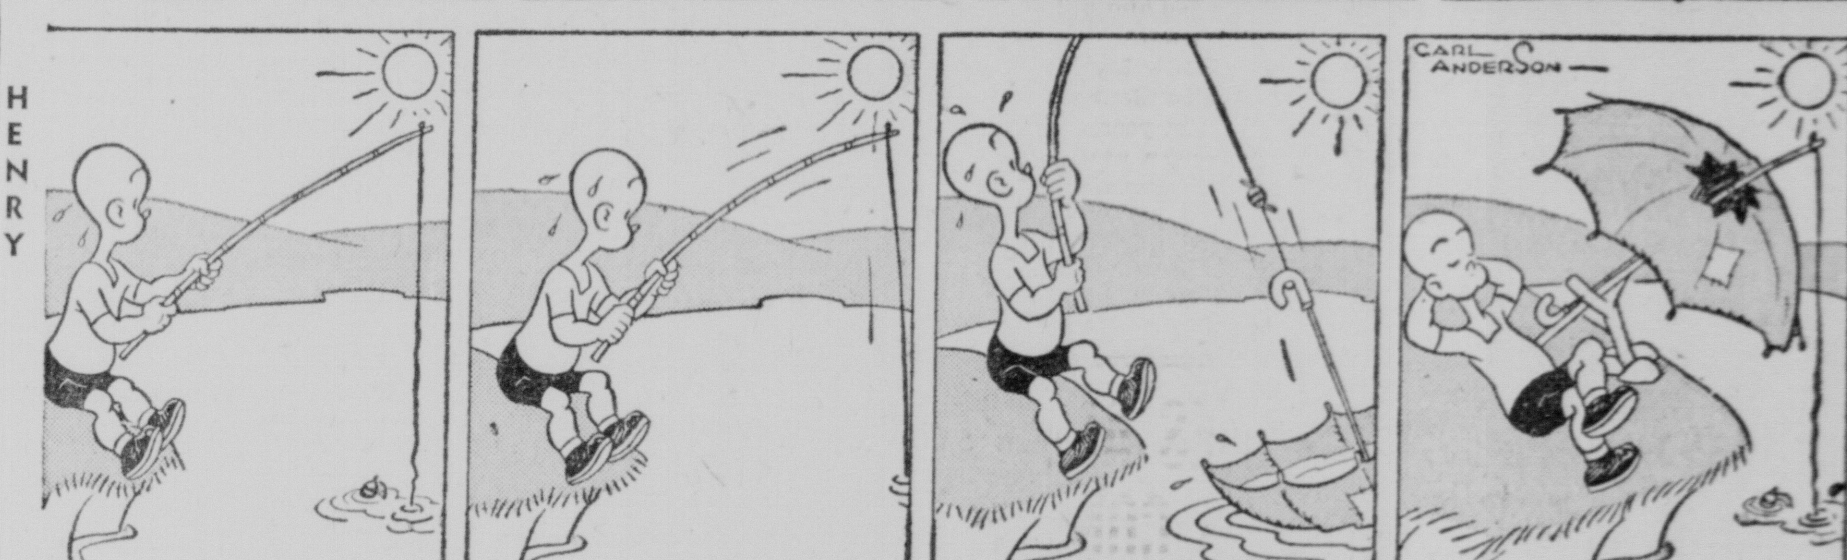

I'm happy to report that the television antenna doesn't work much better than the man's old one, which was on the roof of his house. Serves him right.

Fire Destroys Warehouse, Apartments In North End

Three Families Routed; Loss Over $30,000

Dwelling Tenant Spreads Alarm; 2 Firemen Hurt

Fire of undetermined origin was under control early this morning after gutting a building of Bennett's Storage Company on Madison Street late last night, forcing three families in an adjacent apartment house into the street. Early this morning there were reports of two firemen being injured in the four-alarm blaze.

Frank Bennett, Sr., owner of the building, estimated damage to the building alone at $30,000, but said it would be impossible to give an early estimate of total damage. Mrs. Joseph L. Poling, who occupies the third-floor apartment, said she and her husband were listening to the radio at about 11 p.m. when they smelled smoke. They went to the kitchen and discovered smoke pouring through the floor near their kitchen stove.

The Polings warned the other two families in the building, and went across an alley to the home of Brandon Akers, a Bennett employee, who sounded the alarm.

The Polings said they and the other families were forced to run into the street and could save none of their belongings. The second floor apartment was occupied by Mrs. James Burke, a widow, and her three children, while Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rouch and their five children lived on the first floor.

Dense Gray Smoke

For the first 20 minutes after the alarm was sounded, huge clouds of dense gray smoke poured from the building, and flames could be seen through windows and cracks in the wall.

Firemen were standing on a first-floor porch playing five streams of water on the blaze when the first breakthrough came at 11:45. The Madison Street side of the building gave way and firemen leaped from the roof and the inside of the building as huge sheets of flame shot into the sky.

Several hundred people thronged the overhead bridge on Henderson Avenue and flocked to adjacent alleys to watch the blaze.

Shortly after midnight firemen had brought the flames partially under control, but massive balls of flame were still rolling across the floors.

Two Firemen Hurt

Lt. William Barban and Fireman Leo Reichert were injured while battling the blaze. Barban was treated at Allegheny Hospital for lacerations of several fingers sustained while he was inside the building.

Reichert was knocked from the top of the building and was removed from the scene. Neither of the local hospitals reported treating Reichert.

A few moments later, the blaze on the third floor was stopped at the rug-cleaning room, and at 12:30 a. m. today firemen reported the fire almost completely under control.

Firemen who were inside the building said it was almost a total loss. The floors fell and walls were cracking and chipping.

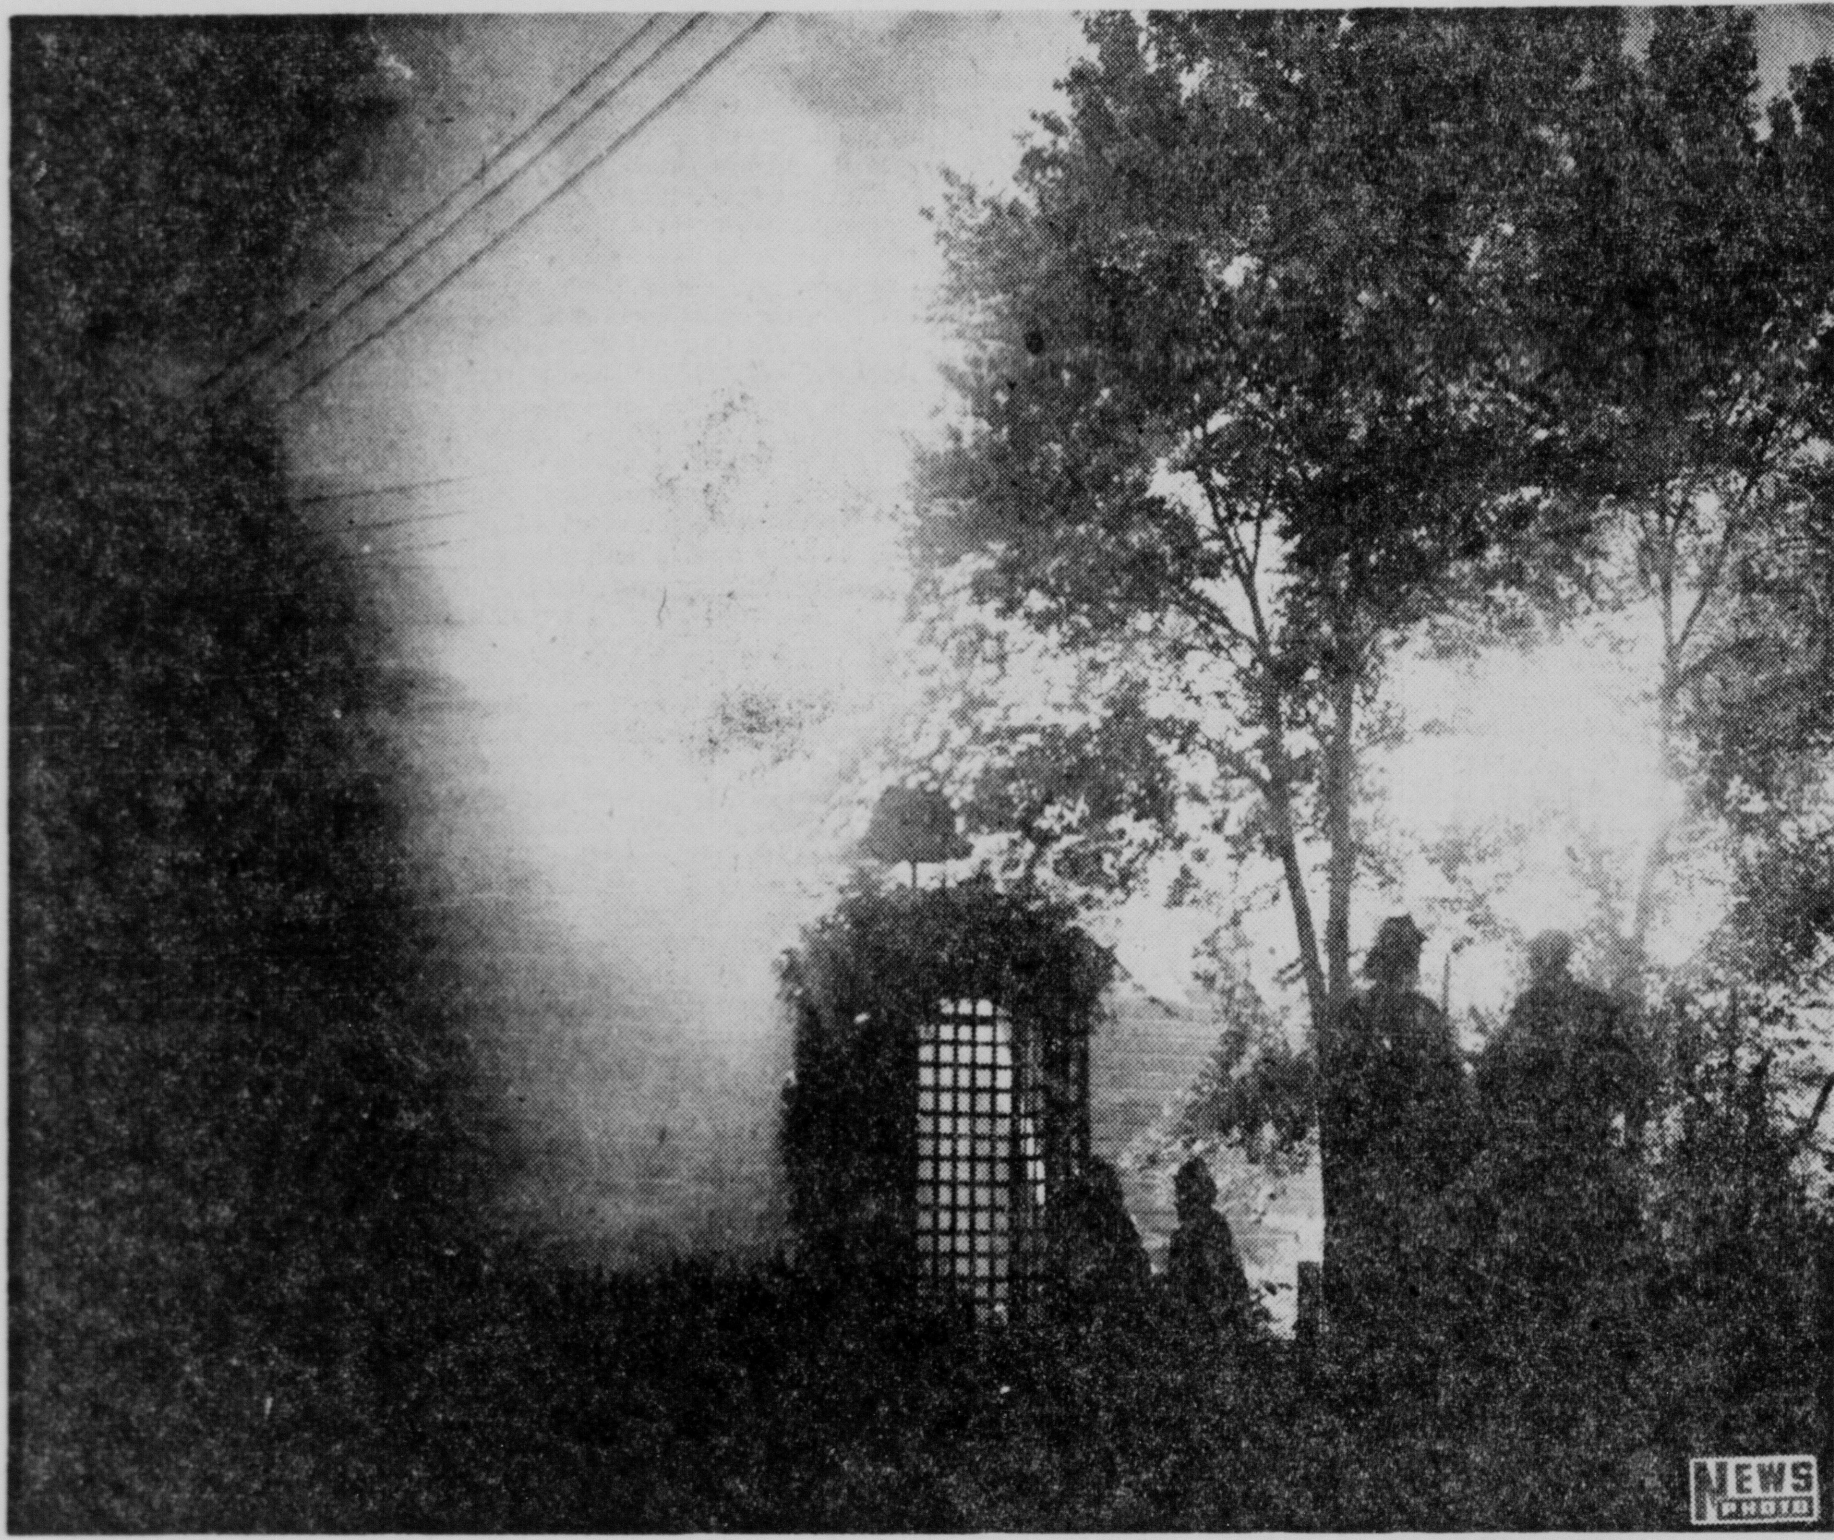

The main building across the alley, however, was untouched by the blaze, but firemen kept a stream of water playing on the building.

Bennett said he believes the blaze started in a small storage space under the apartments. Four men are usually on duty at the building he said, adding that the building was closed early last night.

He added that no furniture was stored in the burned building, although about $5,000 worth of uncrated stokers were destroyed. The building was used only for rug-cleaning, plumbing and heating storage and sales and service.

No furniture stored by his company was damaged, he said, since it was all kept in the main building across the alley.

Soldier Is Held On Manslaughter In Girl's Death

Ayers Released On $500 Bond Until Nov.

A 19-year-old soldier who rushed a dying girl to King's Clinic Petersburg, Va., August 14 and told Grant County authorities she fell from his moving automobile, yesterday was ordered held in her death.

Booked as Pfc. William G. Ayers, on leave from Andrews Air Field, near Washington, D. C., the prisoner waived a preliminary hearing on a charge of voluntary manslaughter and was released on $500 bond.

H. E. Oates, county coroner, said a six-man jury returned a verdict that Etta Shreve, 16, Smoke Hole, W. Va., died of a fractured skull suffered in a fall from Ayers' automobile on August 14.

During yesterday's inquest, Oates said, witnesses told of seeing the dead girl just before the fatal accident fight to get away from Ayers who two days earlier was ordered from her home after spending the night there.

An older sister, Freda Shreve, one of seven witnesses who took the stand, said she overheard Ayers tell her sister he didn't want her fooling with him "or there will be a funeral Tuesday." That was after he was asked to leave the home, the witness explained.

Other evidence, however, indicated that the soldier, whose home is in Petersburg, tried to make a date with Etta for August 14 and asked her to meet him at the Hilltop Club in Petersburg.

The older sister said Etta declined but when they arrived at the tavern by themselves late that night Ayers was there. The pair met outside the place and "apparently argued," other witnesses said.

However, Ayers and the girl left the tavern in his car. Persons outside the tavern said they had seen Etta make several attempts to get away, but he always blocked her.

Carl Smith, Kline, W. Va., testified that he was walking through Petersburg the night of the accident and saw Ayers and Etta on the street. The girl was trying to get away from him, but he prevented this, the witness said.

Authorities who investigated the case said Smith apparently was the

Meeting Set Today In Flood Control Dispute

Representatives of the United Foundation Corporation and of unions working on the flood control project may meet again this morning after an unsuccessful effort yesterday to solve the three-day-old strike.

Union representatives met yesterday morning with Thomas Dickson, project engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, in an attempt to settle the dispute. Unions represented were Local 37, Operating Engineers (AFL) and the teamsters and laborers' unions.

Philip Scutleri, head of the construction firm, said last night the union is trying to "intimidate" him by demanding that he hire two men in the place of a discharged employee.

The employee, Frank Williams, was fired Tuesday for "negligence of his duties," Scutleri said. He added Williams had been fired three times previously.

"The 72 men who are out of work are not at all in sympathy with the strike," he declared, adding that most of them "want to come back to work" but that they are remaining out on strike because it was called by the union heads in an effort to "dictate policy" and to "intimidate" him.

He charged the union's demand for two men on Williams' job was "spiteful."

Jaycee Group To Visit Smoke Lab

Arrangements have been made for a group of Junior Association of Commerce members to inspect the Smoke Department office at City Hall and its laboratory facilities at Lake Gordon.

This was announced yesterday by George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer. The group will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at City Hall.

Those invited to make the tour of inspection are Robert Little Ebert, Jaycee president; James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Jaycees smoke control committee, and other committee members.

Hitchcock said he had invited the group to make a similar tour with the Smoke Advisory Board last week but that the Jaycees were unable to be present at that time.

Stork Arrivals

Memorial Hospital announced the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Crabtree, Route 1, Oldtown, a daughter.

Suit Filed Over Mortgage Transaction

A bill of complaint was filed yesterday in Circuit Court to determine ownership of a sum of $1,500 posted with a trustee in a mortgage release transaction.

The plaintiffs, Jesse Wilson and his wife, Edna L. Wilson, in a suit against Robert Wilson and Thomas L. Richards, trustees, declared Jesse Wilson mortgaged a piece of property to Robert Wilson for $4,000.

The plaintiff said he later found he did not need the money and never received it. He later decided to sell the property covered by the mortgage, and Robert Wilson agreed to release the mortgage if the plaintiff would post $1,500 with Richards as trustee, he declared. Jesse Wilson now seeks to regain the sum.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., signed an order Friday requiring Robert Wilson to show cause before August 30 why a decree should not be passed. Jesse and Edna Wilson are represented by Edward J. Ryan.

Eyre Receives Suspended Term Of Six Months

Local Man Paroled In Morals Case

Harry Eyre, a local resident identified by authorities as a salesman for a tea concern, received a suspended sentence of six months in the House of Correction and was placed on parole yesterday in Juvenile Court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl.

According to the State's Attorney's office, Eyre impersonated a state trooper in an attempt to intimidate a 14-year-old North End girl into "going for a ride" with him.

Authorities said Eyre was found guilty at a trial in Uniontown, Pa., several months ago of passing four bad checks. A motion has been made for a new trial in the case and he was at liberty on bond.

According to police, blank checks were stolen from the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and cashed in Uniontown. At the time the checks were stolen, authorities said, Eyre was employed at the Kelly plant as a painter.

Earlier, police said, Eyre had been paroled from West Virginia State Penitentiary at Moundsville on a forgery charge.

The State's Attorney's office gave the following account of the events leading to Eyre's arrest Saturday:

At about 11:30 the evening of August 2, the North End girl was walking home after serving as a babysitter. She had reached Henderson Boulevard when two young men, one of whom she knew, stopped and offered her a ride home.

As she stood talking with them, Eyre drove up. Posing as a state trooper, he questioned the trio and warned the girl she should not be on the streets late at night. He said the state police barracks had received three calls that night regarding minor girls on the streets.

Eyre then told the girl to get in his car and he would take her home. However, he drove her to the LaVale state police barracks on the pretext of checking to determine whether she had a previous record.

The girl became suspicious when she noticed Eyre did not enter the barracks but went around one side of the building. When he returned, he told her there was nothing in the records at the barracks but that they would go to the city police to check records there.

En route back to Cumberland, Eyre gave the girl her choice of "going for a ride" with him or spending the night in City Jail. She chose the latter. As they approached Frederick Street, near police headquarters, Eyre again offered the two alternatives.

When the girl refused to change her mind, Eyre drove to her parents' house and roused the family. Telling her parents that he was Trooper William F. Baker, Eyre warned them not to let their daughter remain out late at night, and left.

The girl's mother, who knew Baker by sight, realized that Eyre was not a trooper and the family called State Police.

The real Trooper Baker told the girl to take Eyre's license number if she should see his car again. The man's arrest followed when the girl saw him driving past some days later.

Authorities said Trooper Baker was a witness at Eyre's trial on the bad check charge in Uniontown.

Weather

Yesterday's temperatures hardly lived up to the weatherman's cheery predictions, but at least it wasn't quite as cold as it was Sunday. The low reading was only 50 degrees. But, several wool dresses and sweaters were seen on the streets as the thermometer refused to go above 60 and rain threatened to fall all afternoon. The late night reading was 60 in preparation for today's clouds, showers and low temperatures.

2 Oldtown Men Face Illegal Whisky Charge

Still, Liquor And Mash Confiscated

A still, a gallon of untaxed whisky and 75 gallons of fermenting mash were responsible yesterday for federal charges preferred against two men, one of whom is in Allegheny County Jail in default of $1,000 bond.

United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett listed the pair as Walter L. Condry and Edward Bishop, both of Oldtown, and said evidence presented at the time the warrant was issued showed that the still was in Condry's home.

Bishop, who was taken into custody yesterday, requested a preliminary hearing and said he knew nothing of the still which was discovered and confiscated August 3, the day Condry was arrested.

Commissioner Avirett set bond for Bishop at $1,000 and remanded him to jail in default to await the hearing scheduled for Thursday at 2 p. m. Condry earlier posted $500 bond and is now awaiting federal court action.

Avirett said charges against the two men were preferred by Charles E. Cushwa and Robert A. Wade, both investigators of the Federal Alcoholic Tax Unit. It was the first illegal whisky charge to be preferred in this county since before the war. At his arraignment, Condry waived a preliminary hearing as well as indictment before the federal grand jury and consented that proceedings be brought by information of the investigating officers.

The warrant charges both men with possessing a 25-gallon capacity unregistered still, carrying on a business of distiller without giving bond and possessing one gallon of untaxed whisky at well as 75 gallons of fermenting mash "fit for distilling" and other distilling equipment.

Bishop, who was taken into custody at Oldtown, denied knowledge of the possession and manufacturing of untaxed whisky. His hearing will be held in the federal court room at the Postoffice building.

Picnic Kits Now Available

Picnic kits containing athletic equipment are now available to local organizations planning picnics. Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, has announced.

Hoey said the kits include a softball, rubber ball, football bats, three bats and a softball mask, a croquet set, volleyball net and horseshoes.

Sacks and other equipment for races and other outdoor events will be added later, Hoey declared.

The kits, packed in a large duffel bag, will be available without cost to any organization which plans a picnic. The organization must sign for the bag and pay for any equipment lost or broken. A list on the bag includes contents of the bag and their prices.

Only one bag has been prepared, but Hoey said the department will have others ready soon. About six are expected to be ready for next season. Groups planning to use the kit must reserve the bag for a definite date, Hoey declared.

The present kit will be used first Thursday by the Exchange Club at its annual Sunshine Picnic at All Ghan Country Club.

Suit Filed To Prevent Building Of Two Schools

Garrett Delegates Parties To Action

A suit to prevent the Board of Garrett County Commissioners from building two new high schools was filed yesterday in Garrett County Circuit Court by all three members of the Garrett delegation to the House of Delegates and a dozen other Garrett countians.

The suit alleges that the county commissioners would use money intended for improvement or construction of high schools at five other places in the county.

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday signed an order requiring the board to show cause before September 22 why the injunction should not be granted.

Attorney Walter C. Capper, who with Edward J. Ryan, a member of the Allegheny County School Board, represents the plaintiffs, said last night the dispute arose from a construction of Chapter 575 of the Acts of the 1947 Legislature.

The 1947 law, he declared, provided that money from a $1,500,000 bond issue should be used toward building new high schools or improving existing ones at Oakland, Friendsville, Accident, Kitzmiller and Grantsville. The money, he stated, was to be supplemented with other funds left over from 1945.

The county commissioners then hired an expert to study the situation, he declared. The expert recommended abandoning the existing high schools and turning them into elementary schools. Under his plan two new high schools would be built, one between Oakland and Mt. Lake Park, and the other at the Cove between Accident and Keyser Ridge. The commissioners, he added, agreed to buy sites for the two proposed schools.

Parties to the suit claimed the action is an "arbitrary and improper" use of the funds provided in the law. Construction of the new schools, they said, would require all the money provided and would prevent compliance with the 1947 law.

Delegate R. E. McIntyre, one of the plaintiffs, said last night the county commissioners are attempting "to set up an entirely new school system."

The program, he declared, would cost about three or four million dollars, "and that's a little steep for Garrett County," he added.

McIntyre and the other delegates connected with the suit, Jasper Myers and George E. Coddington, were all members of the delegation when the law was passed. A Senate bill, it was introduced by former State Senator Lawrence M. Fraley, who later resigned.

Fraley's brother, Neil C. Fraley, who replaced him in the Senate, is attorney to the county commissioners and is backing the board's action, according to Clifford Friend, former state senator and another party to the suit. Friend said the action was the result of signing of a petition by 2,500 Garrett County taxpayers.

The petitions were sent out two months ago in the form of circular letters to 3,000 voters, Friend explained.

Local Firm Develops New Drilling Process

An article describing a new technique for precision drilling on a production basis, developed by the National Jet Company, a local concern, appears in the August 25 issue of "American Machinist."

The article was written by J. A. Cupler, II, general manager of the company.

Production of micro-drills and equipment for using them has been developed by the National Jet Company "to the point at which the hazard of tool breakage is virtually eliminated," the article states.

Through research, micro-drilling and micro-machining has been made a safer and more practicable production than conventional drilling methods, Cupler said.

The illustrated article describes in detail the new mechanical principle which Cupler said is applicable to industry in general.

Labor Day Celebration To Include Big Parade, Basket Picnic, Dance

A morning street parade in the city plus a basket picnic and a dance at Crystal Park will highlight the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference's observance of Labor Day here.

The parade which will carry prizes totaling $375 with a top $100 prize for the winning float will begin to move over the principal streets of the city at 10 a. m.

From there the celebration will move to Crystal Park where a basket picnic along with free refreshments including roast corn, weiners, soft drinks, beer, ice cream and cake will be served.

The conference picnic committee said following a meeting last night that a speaking program that is expected to present at least one nationally known orator is being rounded out. It will be announced shortly.

The dance which will be held in the park pavilion from 8 to 12 p. m. will feature the nationally known radio and dance band of Norman Daye, who has made previous appearances in the city.

The parade, according to committee members, will start on Laing Avenue and will move over Virginia Avenue, Maryland Avenue, Williams Street, Park Street, Baltimore Street and South Mechanic Street before disbanding at the postoffice.

A breakdown of the prize list shows:

$100 for the winning float, $50 for the second; $50 for the top drum corps and $25 for second; $50 for the organization coming the longest distance with 20 or more in line; $50 for the best band, $25 for the second and $25 for the Volunteer Fire Department's finest.

At the picnic children will find a number of carnival rides, and committee members said an effort is being made to bring in a few tent shows.

A souvenir program, supported by local merchants is being prepared.

Margaret Reiley Takes Fight For Duty-Free Dolls To Pittsburgh

Miss Margaret Reiley went to Pittsburgh yesterday to fight with U. S. Customs officials over whether she would pay duty on 200 dolls destined for her Drive for Dolls.

She won a partial victory. She won't pay the $14.60 duty demanded by the government for the shipment of her dolls from Canada.

But they can't be moved to Somerset, Pa., where the woman's editor of the Somerset-American has collected 1,500 other dolls for shipment to European children.

Customs officials told Miss Reiley that she will have to unpack, tag, readdress and repack the toys in Pittsburgh.

"It's going to be a big job," she sighed. "But I can't pay the duty. It's not a matter of money. It's the precedent it would set. We are expecting other shipments from Canada and I'm hoping someone in Washington will do something about this silly red tape before then."

And maybe someone will. Pennsylvania's Senator Edward Martin said yesterday in Washington that he had been assured by customs authorities that the dolls can pass duty free.

All that must be done, Martin said he was informed, is for the Somerset-American to fill out some papers guaranteeing that the dolls will not be sold in this country.
